TAP is partnering with UofM ICI for COMMUNITY CONVERSATIONS

We invite families, educators, employers, self-advocates, and other community members to join us for a conversation about young adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities (IDD) and their transition from school to adulthood.

We are interested in listening to your perspectives on:

- Young adults with disabilities transitioning to work, college, and independent living
- What is working well in the community for including young adults with IDD
- Barriers to including young adults with IDD in the community
- Solutions to breaking the barriers

Please RSVP for Community Conversations by scanning the QR Code or going to the following link
